Headline:
Turning cold and windy for Easter Monday.

This Evening and Tonight:
A band of rain will clear southwards tonight introducing colder and windier weather. Another band of patchy rain, sleet and snow will clear to the south by dawn bringing very cold air and a severe frost to northern parts. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Monday:
A frosty start, with some lingering cloud and snow showers which soon clear southward. Plenty of sunshine but feeling unseasonably cold in the low temperatures and the biting winds. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Cold and wintry through this period, with widespread frosts. Breezy and sunny with the odd snow shower Tuesday afternoon. Conditions ease slightly on Wednesday. Windy with rain Thursday, remaining cold.
